THE COMMERCIAL COURSE,

EMBRACES COMMERCIAL LAW, POLITICAL ECONOMY, BOOK-KEEPING,

Book-keeping, as studied in connection with the course, exhibits the entire process of opening, conducting and closing about forty sets of Stock and Partnership Books, with the most approved forms for keeping accounts by Single and Double Entry, in the various departments of trade.

In working these sets the student makes out his Journal,—in most of the sets Day-book also, and posts to his Ledger, keeping all the auxiliary books, and writing out every kind of Commercial Paper, including Contracts, Promissory Notes, Checks, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, Orders, Receipts, Due-bills, Accounts Current, Account Sales, Bills of Parcels, Invoices, and Bills of Lading.

Among the kinds of business which the practice in Book-keeping comprises, are Wholesale and Retail Merchandising, Commission, Compound Company and Joint Stock business, Banking, Steamboating, Railroading, Manufacturing, Jobbing, Brokerage, and Exchange.

The telegraphic apparatus is very large, embracing every kind of instrument in use on the lines of this country, in connection with which there is a good collection of electrical instruments quite sufficient to fully illustrate every principle of electricity which would in any wise interest or benefit the student of Telegraphy. In the practice, students are drilled first on short circuits confined to the College building, then upon the College line having five separate offices, distant from each other a quarter of a mile, and provided with all necessary office supplies, such as blank record books, printed message blanks, tariff books, blank reports, and train order blanks. The W. U. Co.'s city office and the telegraph office of the L. S. & M. S. R. R. are also connected with this line, and the telegrams of the public are received and transmitted from either of these offices. As soon as the student becomes qualified to transact business for the public readily, he is allowed to take charge of the city office of the W. U. Telegraph Co., where he is required to perform every duty connected with the public service, working directly with several cities and large towns, and being brought through this channel into business relations with a large body of operators, among whom are some of the best qualified in the service, he is enabled to gain a practical experience not attainable in any other way.

THE COURSE

Is divided into two divisions, and is accompanied by a course of Lectures embracing the following subjects:

The Department will soon have completed a subscription of ten thousand dollars for the construction of the north-west building, as shown in the plan of the new College group. When completed, this building will be a more elegant and commodious home than is possessed by any similar school in the West. The friends of commercial education are earnestly solicited to aid in this first structure of the kind in the United States, built by the business public.

For additional information concerning this Department, address

ALEXANDER C. RIDEOUT, Principal.

INFORMATION.

A fine suite of rooms, in the building now erecting, will be devoted to the use of this department.

In the Instrumental Department, it is the chief aim to lay a sure foundation, by a patient study of technics, and to develop a pure taste.

Classes in vocal music will be graded to give thorough instruction in the principles of notation, and to afford means for acquiring considerable ability in reading at sight.

The BEETHOVEN SOCIETY affords opportunity for advanced singers to become familiar with the various styles of choir and chorus singing, and for an acquaintance with many compositions of the best masters.

ART DEPARTMENT.

During the past year "Free Hand Drawing and Perspective" have been taught and made a requirement to students entering the Freshman Class. In the East Building, now being erected, a suite of fine rooms is set apart for this Department. These rooms are located and lighted with a view to their especial use. A nucleus of original paintings is already in existence by the liberality of friends. A supply of easels is very much needed and it is hoped will soon be added.

Art-study from nature and original works is largely pursued, and it is the aim to make this Department second to none in this country.

An endowment for this Department is much needed and it is hoped that the especial friends of Art will come forward and supply this want. If competent instructors are retained it is necessary that this branch of the Institution shall be self-sustaining.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

LOCATION.

HILLSDALE, the seat of Hillsdale College is a flourishing city in Southern Michigan. By means of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, and the Detroit, Hillsdale & Southwestern Railroads, which pass through it, communication is had with all parts of the country. By these routes it is one hundred and eighty miles east of Chicago, sixty west of Toledo, and eighty southwest of Detroit. The College buildings, located on College Hill, beautifully overlook the entire business portion of the city, and yet are sufficiently removed to secure quiet.

BUILDINGS.

The College occupies four separate buildings, three of them new, having been erected since the burning of the former edifice, March 6th, 1874. The structures are all of brick, three stories high, and are arranged on three sides of a quadrangle, the principal front facing the south. The College park of twenty-five acres, is well laid out and beautifully adorned with shade trees and evergreens.

The main College Hall, 80 x 80, contains the Chapel, 60 x 66, Library and Reading Room, 60 x 30, President's Room, Treasurer's Office, four classical, and two mathematical recitation rooms. The building is of Composite style of architecture, and is surmounted by a dome containing a 2,500 lb. bell, and a large four dial tower clock. The turret deck above the dome, (accessible to visitors,) rises 125 feet over the foundation, and commands the finest view in Southern Michigan.

The extreme West Building, 48 x 72, contains the Museum of Natural History, 48 x 30—two stories; the Chemistry Amphitheatre; two fire-proof Chemical Laboratories; the Alumni Hall; and three large and elegantly furnished Literary Society Halls.

The extreme East Building, 48 x 72, contains the Philosophical Amphitheatre; the Lady Principal's Recitation Room; one Mathematical Recitation Room; Art Gallery; Studio; Music Room; Beethoven Hall; and two Ladies' Society Halls.

The Ladies' Dormitory Building, 80 x 60, is the "East Hall and Connection" of the former building, (the centre and west wing of which were burned.) It contains the College Parlor; Lady Principal's Office and Rooms; Dormitories for fifty young ladies; the Dining Hall, Kitchen, etc.

The North West Building, 50 x 72 feet, which is to be built the present year, will contain the Recitation Rooms and offices of the Com-

The Department has also added a series of one hundred colored anatomical charts, and also a suit of ten geological paintings illustrative of the different geological ages, painted for the College by Prof. Geo. B. Gardner, which are of the highest artistic and scientific value. A new and powerful microscope, made by Browning, of London, has been presented to the department the present year.

The department of Chemistry, though it lost all by the fire, is now more fully equipped in chemicals and apparatus, and possesses more varied and convenient appliances for its work than before the fire.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

The Gentlemen have three well sustained Literary Societies: The Amphictyon, the Alpha Kappa Phi, and the Theological.

The latter is mostly composed of students who have the ministry in view.

The Ladies have two Societies: The Ladies' Literary Union, and the Germanae Sodales, which are also well sustained.

These Societies have separate rooms.

ALUMNI CATALOGUE.

The Alumni Association publish this year a complete list of their membership, which includes all who have graduated from the College, giving their degrees, place of nativity, present address, occupation, etc. This Catalogue will be equivalent to the "College Triennial," and contain the Constitution of the Association, an abstract of the proceedings since its organization, the necrology of members, an account of the Literary Exercises of their Reunion, etc.

This initiatory volume has been compiled by Elon G. Reynolds, A.M., a resident graduate, and is the result of a careful and patient gathering of such facts as will be of peculiar interest to all the members of the Association, and of great value to the College.

Extra copies may be obtained upon application to the Alumni Professor, Rev. John S. Copp. Single copies, 25 cents, five copies, $1.

OUR CATALOGUE.

Because of the reduction of our resources since the destructive fire of 1874, and because of increased expenses, we have found it difficult to issue our Annual Catalogue. We have, therefore, issued a smaller edition and supplemented with this circular to save expense both in publishing and in postage. In ordering the Catalogue cost and postage will be acceptable.

Persons not wishing to pursue a course of study in the department at present, but who intend to do so in a few years, would do well to purchase scholarships now and thus aid in the construction of the beautiful group of buildings in process of erection.

THE COMMERCIAL COURSE,

EMBRACES COMMERCIAL LAW, POLITICAL ECONOMY, BOOK-KEEPING, PENMANSHIP, AND COMMERCIAL ARITHMETIC.

Book-keeping, as studied in connection with the course, exhibits the entire process of opening, conducting and closing about forty sets of Stock and Partnership Books, with the most approved forms for keeping accounts by Single and Double Entry, in the various departments of trade.

In working these sets the student makes out his Journal,—in most of the sets Day-book also, and posts to his Ledger, keeping all the auxiliary books, and writing out every kind of Commercial Paper, including Contracts, Promissory Notes, Checks, Drafts, Bills of Exchange, Orders, Receipts, Due-bills, Accounts Current, Account Sales, Bills of Parcels, Invoices, and Bills of Lading.

Among the kinds of business which the practice in Book-keeping comprises, are Wholesale and Retail Merchandising, Commission, Compound Company and Joint Stock business, Banking, Steamboating, Railroading, Manufacturing, Jobbing, Brokerage, and Exchange.

Instruction is given orally to classes and to individuals separately, and their work criticised and corrected.

The telegraphic apparatus is very large, embracing every kind of instrument in use on the lines of this country, in connection with which there is a good collection of electrical instruments quite sufficient to fully illustrate every principle of electricity which would in any wise interest or benefit the student of Telegraphy. In the practice, students are drilled first on short circuits confined to the College building, then upon the College line having five separate offices, distant from each other a quarter of a mile, and provided with all necessary office supplies, such as blank record books, printed message blanks, tariff books, blank reports, and train order blanks. The W. U. Co.'s city office and the telegraph office of the L. S. & M. S. R. R. are also connected with this line, and the telegrams of the public are received and transmitted from either of these offices. As soon as the student becomes qualified to transact business for the public readily, he is allowed to take charge of the city office of the W. U. Telegraph Co., where he is required to perform every duty connected with the public service, working directly with several cities and large towns, and being brought through this channel into business relations with a large body of operators, among whom are some of the best qualified in the service, he is enabled to gain a practical experience not attainable in any other way.

THE COURSE

The Department will soon have completed a subscription of ten thousand dollars for the construction of the north-west building, as shown in the plan of the new College group. When completed, this building will be a more elegant and commodious home than is possessed by any similar school in the West. The friends of commercial education are earnestly solicited to aid in this first structure of the kind in the United States, built by the business public.

For additional information concerning this Department, address

ALEXANDER C. RIDEOUT, Principal.

During the past year "Free Hand Drawing and Perspective" have been taught and made a requirement to students entering the Freshman Class. In the East Building, now being erected, a suite of fine rooms is set apart for this Department. These rooms are located and lighted with a view to their especial use. A nucleus of original paintings is already in existence by the liberality of friends. A supply of casts is very much needed and it is hoped will soon be added.

Art study from nature and original works is largely pursued, and it is the aim to make this Department second to none in this country.

An endowment for this Department is much needed and it is hoped that the especial friends of Art will come forward and supply this want. If competent instructors are retained it is necessary that this branch of the Institution shall be self-sustaining.

GENERAL INFORMATION.

LOCATION.

HILLSDALE, the seat of Hillsdale College is a flourishing city in Southern Michigan. By means of the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern, and the Detroit, Hillsdale & Southwestern Railroads, which pass through it, communication is had with all parts of the country. By these routes it is one hundred and eighty miles east of Chicago, sixty west of Toledo, and eighty southwest of Detroit. The College buildings, located on College Hill, beautifully overlook the entire business portion of the city, and yet are sufficiently removed to secure quiet.

BUILDINGS.

The College occupies four separate buildings, three of them new, having been erected since the burning of the former edifice, March 6th, 1874. The structures are all of brick, three stories high, and are arranged on three sides of a quadrangle, the principal front facing the south. The College park of twenty-five acres, is well laid out and beautifully adorned with shade trees and evergreens.

The main College Hall, 80 x 80, contains the Chapel, 60 x 66, Library and Reading Room, 60 x 30, President's Room, Treasurer's Office, four classical, and two mathematical recitation rooms. The building is of Composite style of architecture, and is surmounted by a dome containing a 2,599 lb. bell, and a large four dial tower clock. The turret deck above the dome, (accessible to visitors,) rises 125 feet over the foundation, and commands the finest view in Southern Michigan.

The extreme West Building, 48 x 72, contains the Museum of Natural History, 48 x 30—two stories; the Chemistry Amphitheatre; two fire-proof Chemical Laboratories; the Alumni Hall; and three large and elegantly furnished Literary Society Halls.

The extreme East Building, 48 x 72, contains the Philosophical Amphitheatre; the Lady Principal's Recitation Room; one Mathematical Recitation Room; Art Gallery; Studio; Music Room; Beethoven Hall; and two Ladies' Society Halls.

The Ladies' Dormitory Building, 80 x 60, is the "East Hall and Connection" of the former building, (the centre and west wing of which were burned.) It contains the College Parlor; Lady Principal's Office and Rooms; Dormitories for fifty young ladies; the Dining Hall, Kitchen, etc.

The North West Building, 50 x 72 feet, which is to be built the present year, will contain the Recitation Rooms and offices of the Commercial and Telegraphic Department, including a Lecture Room 36 x 50, a Practice and Apparatus Room; a large Writing Hall; a Battery Room; Offices, and twenty-two suits of Gentlemen's Dormitories, each suit consisting of a Parlor about 12 feet square, and a Bed-room 9 x 12.

The five buildings extend from North to South 192 feet; and from East to West 496 feet, and contain fifty per cent. more room than the former buildings. All the rooms and halls are lighted by gas, and warmed and ventilated in the most approved manner.

For any additional information with regard to the design, history and photographic view of the new College group, reference is made to the circular issued by authority of the Trustees, and to be obtained of the College Treasurer.

RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

All Students are required to attend Prayers daily in the Chapel, and public worship on the Sabbath, at the College Church, or at such places as may be selected, with the approval of the Faculty.

LIBRARY AND READING ROOM.

The Library contains about five thousand volumes, and is constantly increasing, by donation and purchase. All students have access to the Library, which will be open daily. Friends of the College will confer a substantial favor by making contributions of books. A Reading Room is connected with the Library, furnished with a valuable selection of periodicals, to which all have access. Nearly five hundred books from the valuable private library of Rev. Geo. T. Day, D. D., late Editor of the Morning Star, have just been added to the College Library by the generous joint bestowment of Mrs. Geo. T. Day and Mr. L. W. Anthony, of Providence, R. I., to be known as the "Day Library."

MUSEUM AND LABORATORIES.

By the burning of the College Museum, the Natural History Collections were totally destroyed. But the generous and valuable contributions of other Colleges, the Alumni, and Friends have already made more than a beginning in the work of restoration.

While some valuable mineral specimens were lost that will not soon be replaced, yet the new collection is already more complete in certain departments than before the fire. Acknowledgment is given for the

- (1) Baggerly collection of Minerals.
- (2) Wabash College contribution.
- (3) Prof. Dawson's donation, Montreal.

The Department has also added a series of one hundred colored anatomical charts, and also a suit of ten geological paintings illustrative of the different geological ages, painted for the College by Prof. Geo. B. Gardner, which are of the highest artistic and scientific value. A new and powerful microscope, made by Browning, of London, has been presented to the department the present year.

The department of Chemistry, though it lost all by the fire, is now more fully equipped in chemicals and apparatus, and possesses more varied and convenient appliances for its work than before the fire.

LITERARY SOCIETIES.

The Gentlemen have three well sustained Literary Societies: The Amphictyon, the Alpha Kappa Phi, and the Theological.

The latter is mostly composed of students who have the ministry in view.

The Ladies have two Societies: The Ladies' Literary Union, and the Germanae Sodales, which are also well sustained.

These Societies have separate rooms.

ALUMNI CATALOGUE.

The Alumni Association publish this year a complete list of their membership, which includes all who have graduated from the College, giving their degrees, place of nativity, present address, occupation, etc. This Catalogue will be equivalent to the "College Triennial," and contain the Constitution of the Association, an abstract of the proceedings since its organization, the necrology of members, an account of the Literary Exercises of their Reunion, etc.

This initiatory volume has been compiled by Elon G. Reynolds, A.M., a resident graduate, and is the result of a careful and patient gathering of such facts as will be of peculiar interest to all the members of the Association, and of great value to the College.

Extra copies may be obtained upon application to the Alumni Professor, Rev. John S. Copp. Single copies, 25 cents, five copies, $1.

OUR CATALOGUE.

Because of the reduction of our resources since the destructive fire of 1874, and because of increased expenses, we have found it difficult to issue our Annual Catalogue. We have, therefore, issued a smaller edition and supplemented with this circular to save expense both in publishing and in postage. In ordering the Catalogue cost and postage will be acceptable.
